Twelve-year-old Vahan Kenderian, the son of an influential Armenian family in Turkey, struggles to survive alone after witnessing the deaths of many of his family and friends during the Armenian massacres of the early twentieth century. Reprint. 20,000 first printing.

It is 1915 and Vahan, youngest son of one of Turkey's most influential families, feels secure. Suddenly some of his family is whisked away while others are murdered before his eyes and Vahan is in a fight for his own survival.

Zeroing in on the moments of comic confusion and tender transformation that make up one boy's wild ride through childhood and adolescence, this collection of stories follows Will, a boy with an overactive imagination who grapples with "what kind of man will I become?"

"Based on a true story, this...historical novel tells about the Turkish genocide of the Armenians. Vahan Kenderian, age 12 when his home is torn apart, sees many of his family and friends butchered before his eyes." Booklist. "Bagdasarian has created a story that is a tribute to the human ability to endure. Because of the sexual and physical violence, this book is recommended for mature readers."
